THE WINNING PHOTOGRAPHERS

If you start your tour in the Crook Gardens, you can see a montage of all the photographs.

Sandy Welsh - Carlowse Brig

"I wanted to capture the bridge with the water cascading over the rocks. I waited for a day when the light was good and there had been plenty of overnight rain to fill the river."

Ian Cook - Talla Reservoir

"The sharpness of the reflection on the ice sheet compared to the water of the reservoir was striking and led to a sense of stillness in the landscape."

Maureen Thornborrow - Fruit Reservoir

"The photograph was taken on the spur of the moment one lovely sunny Sunday afternoon in late March after work."

Claire Wilson - Gameshope

"The photograph captures a moment of stillness before I dived into the pool - that breath of calm before the cold rush and the freedom that follows."

Sandy Welsh - Logan Burn

"This is land I have farmed for the past 48 years. I waited for a day and time when the light was right to illuminate the water and the clumps of ferns on the banks of the burn."
